MAYS TRIES TO HOLD CUBS

TROOPSHIP SUNK, 2000 U. S. SOLDIERS ABOARD, ALL SAVED

SOX-CUBS IN 6TH GAME

Peace Reigns Again Following Conferencet of Worlds Series Players and Magnates

By NICK FLATLEY.

Fenway Park, Sept. 11.—The Red Sox and Cub champions with all thought of their strike in the background, went into the sixth game of the hectic series today. The title of the well known world depended on the game.

The Sox were slight favorites with the fraternity today, but there was plenty of Cub money around. Boston at 10 to 8 and 10 to 9 won the prevailing price.

Another big crowd wended its way to the Fenway. The thrill of the two battles played here has created real baseball enthusiasm.

The game fight the Cubs are making with their backs against the wall has thrilled the fans. The brilliant display of diamond fireworks has erased the somewhat disgraceful memory of yesterday's near strike.

Though the players are far from satisfied they have voted to go through anyhow. They appealed today to the club owners for some more equitable adjustment of fiances than that scheduled.

But despite the result of the appeal they will finish the fight out on the ball yard. They wish to say their farewell to baseball as it should be said.

The Red Sox after five successive assaults against great left-handed pitching were sanguine of wrecking this part of the hostile offensive during the afternoon.

The Cubs, after sticking gamely in the fight when they saw most of the breaks go against them, were confident that the tide turned sufficiently yesterday to set them sailing through to the big honor.

The teams consequently were as peppery and determined as they have been at any time during the long title clash. The crowd, $90, was a regular baseball crowd, cheering long and loud the athletes who have worked themselves into the hero class in this grimmest and most thrilling of post-season classics.

AUTO GOES THROUGH WINDOW, TWO HURT

Lawrence, Sept. 11.—Losing control of the steering wheel, Robert Burrows drove his high powered touring car onto the crowded Essex street sidewalk, severely injuring Mrs. Hattie Granda, thirty years old, of No. 15 Crofts street. Eugene Couture of No. 2 Clyde lane also sustained injuries when the car bounded through a large department store window, hurling glass over the crowds.

Arrest Providence Girl on Worthless Check Charge

New York, Sept. 11.—Miss Alice Valentine said to live in Providence, and Miss Jean Mullen, a telephone operator at a local hotel, were arrested today at the request of Atlantic City authorities, charged with cashing $2,916 in worthless checks at the seaside resort.

The lisp of expensive clothes displayed by Atlantic City merchants is said to have been too much for the young women, who recently spent three days there together.

Miss Valentine came to New York two months ago, when the telephoni operator and they took a $3,000 apartment on Riverside drive. The Providence girl declined to give the police the names of her mother and father. "I don't want to disgrace them," she said.

ROGER W. BABSON UNDER KNIFE FOR APPENDICITIS

Roger W. Babson, the statistician, now serving in Washington as director-general of information and education of the Department of Labor, has been operated upon at the Massachusetts General Hospital for appendicitis, His Wellesley Hills office announced today that he was doing splendidly and that all symptoms were favorable for his speedy recovery. Dr. Hugh Williams performed the operation, Dr. W. Stewart Whittemore assisted.

FLY FLAGS AS BOYS REGISTER

Boston Ready to Respond to Crowder's Request for Draft Day Tomorrow

Streaming flags and the blare of bands will usher in registration day in Boston tomorrow.

Complying with the request of Provost Marshal Crowder that every band play and every flag fly, orders were issued from the loca army and navy headquarters today that the military and naval bands go to all parts of the city.

The Aviation Band will go to Brookline, the Navy Yard Band to Chelsea, the Naval Radio Band to Cambridge and the Commonwealth Pier Band to Newton. Assignments for other bands are

Honor McKenna, Old Harvard Oarsman, Who Gave Life

By NEWTON C. PARKE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army in France, Sept. 11.—Major James A. McKenna, Jr., former stroke of the Harvard crew, is among the heroes posthumously awarded the distinguished service cross, in a new list issued by General Pershing.

Major McKenna was killed in action near Villers-sur-Fere, on July 28, while advancing ahead of his men in a most hazardous attack across the Ourcq. Major McKenna led the way up the heights beyond the river in the face of heavy artillery and machine gun fire until he was killed.

Catherine McKenna of No. 126 West Seventy-ninth street, New York city, is listed as Major McKenna's next of kin.

GERMANS' ATTACKS BROKEN

British War Office Reports Further Gains in Flanders. French Also Advance

The Germans are now fighting desperately to halt the allied advance which began fifty-six days ago, but their counter-attacks, which have been delivered at various points in front of the 1917 Hindenburg line, are breaking down as rapidly as they are made.

The British have gained more ground opposite St. Quentin and in Flanders, but the French War office today mentioned only artillery duels on the Aisne-Vesle front and in the Champagne region.

There has been fighting of violent intensity around Gouseaucourt, where

Lifeboats Shelled by U-Boat Guns; Six Norwegians Die

By International News Service.

London, Sept. 11.—The lifeboats of the Norwegian steamship Eglantine were bombarded by the German U-boat which torpedoed the vessel without warning, according to the sole survivor who has arrived at Christiania.

The captain of the ship and five members of the crew died from wounds on the liferaft, where they had taken refuge after the attack. The mate of the Eglantine lost his mind from suffering.

The press of Norway is indignant.

PETROGRAD SWEPT BY FLAMES

Washington, Sept. 11.—That Petrograd is burning, and that fires origina in twelve places, and that indiscriminate massacres are taking place in the streets of the Russian capital, was the word that reached the State Department today.

It came from the American legation at Christiania, which transmitted the report as having been received there from what was accepted as an authoritative source. That was all of the information the legation had been able to get.

A similar report had reached the department shortly before from another source. In the absence of details, officials had nothing to say. It has been known for some time past that the general situation in Petrograd was very bad. The Bolsheviki have been making wholesale arrests and have been executing without trial and without warning all leaders of the factions that are opposed to them.

It is believed here that as a result of this drastic action a new revolutionary movement has broken out and that anarchy not only exists in the capital, but throughout a good part of Russian territory.

One Thousand British Subjects Are Thrown Into Prison in Petrograd

Copenhagen, Sept. 11.—A quarter of a billion dollars the first instalment of Russia's war indemnity, has been sent from Moscow to Berlin, according to advices received here.

London, Sept. 11.—One thousand British subjects have been jailed in Petrograd, the Daily Express learns.

Washington, Sept. 11.—The Bolshevik government has signed another supplemental treaty with Germany providing for war on the allies.

This information came to the State Department in a message from Ambassador Francis at Archangel.

20 OF CREW KILLED BY TORPEDO

At an American Rest Camp in England, Sept. 11.—A British troopship with 2,003 American soldiers, 70 of them officers, on board, was sunk by a German submarine off the English coast on Saturday afternoon. All of the Americans were saved.

The murderous German craft came to its own doom in the attack, for four destroyers pounced upon it, dropping depth charges which are believed to have blown it to pieces.

As one of the depth charges went off debris and human bodies were hurled upward, making certain that the beast of the seas had been destroyed.

Oil and debris were afterwards seen smeared on the surface of the water.

One survivor from the submarine was reported to have been made prisoner.

Twenty stokers were reported to have been killed by the explosion of the torpedo.

Two torpedoes were fired at the ship, but the first one missed. The transport was in the centre of the convoy before the attack, but dropped to the rear. The American soldiers showed the greatest coolness throughout. As the warning was sounded they filed to the boats in excellent order. One soldier who thought that the ship was doomed beneath his feet, jumped into the water meanwhile shouting to his companions: "God forgive the Germans for I can't."

Among the survivors landed and brought here was Edwin Fern of Chicago.

"When the blast came all the men rushed towards the lifeboats as they had been trained to do," said Fern.

"The force of the explosion was so great that the men were thrown back from the rails, but everybody kept

U. S. TO DEPORT FRENCH SPY SUSPECTS

By International News Service.

New York, Sept. 11.—Deportation of Henri De Veville and Count Robert De Clairmont, who have been held on Ellis Island since last March as spy suspects, are ordered deported. Mme. Charlotte Nix, wife of a German army officer, and Mme. Despina Davidovitch Storch, a Turkish beauty, were arrested by agents of the Department of Justice at the same time as Veville and Clairmont.

Mme Storch died soon after she was sent to Ellis Island. The immigration authorities have decided on the deportation of Mme. Nix, but can not carry out that plan at present because the United States is at war with the country of which she is a citizen. She will be held in America until after the war. She may be transferred from Ellis Island to an internment camp.

3,000 ENGLISH CAPTURED, SAY GERMANS

London, Sept. 11 (3:42 p. m.).—The capture of more than three thousand English troops is claimed in the latest statement from the German War Office received here this afternoon. The text of the statement follows:

"Attacks by the English were repulsed south of Ypres and north of the Labassee canal, where prisoners were taken south of Gouseaucourt and Epeny. English attacks were driven back and 1,000 prisoners were captured.

"Enemy attacks between the Ailette and the Aisne failed."

KAISER VISITS KRUPP GUN WORKS AT ESSEN

The Hague, Sept. 11.—The Kaiser has just paid a visit to the Krupp gun works at Essen, according to information from Berlin today.

GERMAN TROOPS REFUSE TO GO TO FRONT

London, Sept. 11.—An Amsterdam dispatch says that the Twenty-fifth German regiment mutinied when ordered to board a train at Cologne for the front a few days ago.

Another regiment was turned out to enforce the entrainment order, but was unsuccessful, the soldiers refusing to fire on their rebellious comrades.

The city home defence guard (landsturm) disciplinary measures and a lively fight ensued. Eleven youths of the league are said to have been killed in the struggle.

MEN FORCED OUT NOT "WORK" LAW VIOLATORS

New York, Sept. 11.—Holding that men discharged because of labor disputes are not voluntarily out of work, Judge Humphrey, in the Queens County Court, has dismissed the complaint of violating the anti-loafing law made against four former employes of Rosenwasser Brothers.

YANKEES MAKE NEW GAINS ON THE AISNE

By HENRY G. WALES,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army on the Aisne Front, Sept. 10 (6 P. M.)—American troops on the Aisne River front have again extended their gains, forcing the Germans to retire eastward of the Revillon-Glennes road.

This German retreat followed a bombardment by American batteries and a flare-up of activities by American patrols.

However, the Germans still maintain machine gun nests on the ridge northeast of Merval and Little Mountain.

The key to the whole situation which lies to the north of Revillon is still occupied by the enemy.

U. S. TO AUCTION OFF GERMAN COMPANY

Washington, Sept. 11.—The Orenstein-Arthur Koppel Co. of Koppel, Pa., with branches in New York, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and San Francisco, and 100 per cent. German owned, will be sold at auction in Koppel tomorrow as an alien property custodian. This is the first public auction of a German business concern under the alien property custodian's authority. The company was able to give valuable espionage assistance to Germany through contracts with the du Pont powder works, the U. S. Steel Corporation and other war industries.

the British have been driving forward to get in between Cambrai and St. Quentin. The Germans in that zone have been making vigorous counter-thrusts against the British, but have attained no results.

On the southern end of the Picardy battlefront the French have advanced again and are now threatening the rear of the mighty German position on the wooded slopes of the St. Gobain massif, according to unofficial advices from the front. To the north of this area it is believed that the French have reached the Oise River. If not, they are very close to it.

On the Aisne front the Americans have extended their gains in the direction of Rheims, but the Germans still hold powerful positions to the south of the Aisne, especially in the district immediately west of Rheims.

Bad weather has set in over a great portion of the battle front, and there have been cold rains since Sunday. This is a severe handicap to the airline, because it will turn the chalk soft and make it hard to move up the big guns and the heavy munition trains. It also makes the work of the tanks extremely difficult.

On the other hand, it is a favorable circumstance for the Germans, giving them time to establish field works and to strengthen the lines of defence behind their present front.

The initiative, however, is still in the possession of the allies everywhere.

British Advance Lines Toward St. Quentin in Spite of Big Resistance

By International News Service.

London, Sept. 11 (12:11 p. m.)—Overcoming strong enemy resistance, the British have again advanced their lines in the direction of St. Quentin, the War Office announced today.

In the sector of Moeuvres the Germans succeeded in fighting their way into British trenches, but were hurled back.

There was bitter fighting in the sector of Gouzeaucourt as the result of German counter-thrusts.

Fresh progress has been made by the British on the Flanders front, advancing east of Erquinghem, in the vicinity of Armentieres.

The text of the statement reads:

"We advanced over line yesterday in the direction of Attilly and Vermand.

"In the evening the enemy again strongly attacked our positions on the right, west of Gouzeaucourt.

"Sharp fighting followed. As a result the attack was completely beaten off, except at one point where one of our posts remained in possession of the enemy.

"There was local fighting yesterday afternoon and during the evening in the neighborhood of Moeuvres and Bourlon Wood.

"In the former case the enemy succeeded in entering our trenches, but was repulsed after stiff fighting.

"We advanced our lines slightly during the night west of Erquinghem."

Ludendorff Fortifies Belgian Cities, Prepares for a Colossal Retreat

London, Sept. 11.—Ludendorff is preparing to retreat. Dispatches from Amsterdam describe the Germans as fortifying with feverish haste the cities of Bruges and Ghent and strengthening the defences of the Belgian forts at Liege and Namur and the French fortress of Maubeuge.

From Maubeuge alone twenty thousand civilians have been removed in the past few weeks, according to Amsterdam advices.

Everywhere along the battlefront there are indications that the Germans are preparing a retirement on a colossal scale. Artillery and war supplies are being hastily removed from St. Quentin and Cambrai, while the German press announces that Douai, the great fog supply base between Cambrai and Lille, is being evacuated.

Torrential rains are now drenching the greater part of the battle front. It is the first really bad weather in weeks and has imposed a temporary halt upon large-scale infantry operations. Only local fighting is reported by Field Marshal Haig in his bulletin on the battle in front of the Hindenburg line.

It took place west of Gouzeaucourt and Epehy, in the centre of the British line fronting the St. Quentin-Cambrai sector. In Flanders the British moved their lines ahead slightly northwest of Neuve Chapelle and west of Armentieres.

The unofficial report late told of British patrols having reached Pressoy-le-Petit, which lies slightly more than three miles northwest of St. Quentin.

The French made substantial progress just before the downpour started, between St. Quentin and La Fere. Their converging movement on St. Quentin, General Humbert's French forces inspired the four principal routes leading to the city from the south and west.

The heavy rain may stave off the fall of La Fere a day or so, but that the town is certain to fall before long is the verdict of all critics and front correspondents. The French semicircle is at some points less than a mile from the outskirts. The Germans are expected to move back from the bridge formed by the Serre River and the Oise Canal, and may attempt a temporary stand there.

In their advance half-way between St. Quentin and La Fere the French took Gibercourt and Remigny, a little more than five miles northwest of La Fere; Claires, six miles northwest of La Fere, and Grand Verneuil-court, a little more than five miles southwest of St. Quentin, are also in the French hands. Further gains beyond the Crozat Canal were made.

Riots and Mutinies in Vienna and Bohemia; Austria's Plight Tragic

Rome, Sept. 11.—With riots and mutinies in Vienna, Bohemia and elsewhere, the political and economic situation in Austria-Hungary was today described as tragic.

Eight hundred Italians have been released by the Austrians.

So serious have conditions become in the dual monarchy that political concessions are being forced from the government.

The food scarcity becomes more and more menacing. The adulterations increase and now the bread consists mainly of ground straw and is absolutely unpalatable.

The crops are a failure because much of them has been consumed before they ripened.

Artillery Active, Pershing Reports, on Lorraine and Vosges Mountain Front

Washington, Sept. 11.—"Except for artillery fighting in Lorraine and in the Vosges, the day passed quietly in the sectors occupied by our troops," General Pershing reports in section A of his communique for September 10 made public by the War Department this afternoon.

Section B is given over to a description of the hostile raid reported in the communique for September 8, when 200 German infantrymen, accompanied by twenty pioneers, raided our lines between Flirey and Limey.

French Artillery Is Active on Aisne, Vesle and in Champagne

Paris, Sept. 11 (noon).—"Outside of artillery actions at some points on the Aisne River, the Vesle and in Champagne, there is nothing of importance to announce," the War Office stated today.

Life of Woman Saved From German Bombers When She Leaves Bed to Pray

Washington, Sept. 11. — Germans are continuing to bombard Red Cross hospitals in Belgium, according to cables to the American Red Cross here today. In one hospital visited by Major John Van Schaick of the Red Cross, German aviators bombed a hospital, in which the life of a ninety-eight-year-old woman was saved when she left her bed to say her prayers. The bomb hit the pillow she left.

Haig Reports Gains for British in Local Actions in Lys Valley

London, Sept. 11.—Local fighting west of Epehy and Gouzeaucourt was reported by Field Marshal Haig in his report.

The British made a slight advance northeast of Neuve Chapelle and also west of Armentieres, in Flanders.

The text of Field Marshal Haig's report follows:

"Except for local fighting in the Epehy and Gouzeaucourt sectors, in which we secured prisoners, there is nothing of special importance to report on the battlefront south of the River Scarpe.

"On the Lys front our patrols have made slight progress northeast of Neuve Chapelle and west of Armentieres.

"Stormy weather continues."

St. Gobain Forest Threatened in Rear by Allied Advance

London, Sept. 11 (11 a. m.)—St. Gobain, the great stretch of wooded high ground that forms one of the defences of the southern end of the Hindenburg line, is now threatened in the rear by the allied advance.

In the outflanking move on St. Quentin slow but sure progress is being made.

Aviators are taking on the offensive where the tanks are hindered by the hail of bombs, similar to the operation conducted by the Americans and French at Flirmes, on the Aisne front.

A dispatch from Paris quoted Henri Bidou, the famous French military critic, as saying the Germans will soon learn that there are other vulnerable points on his front.

cool. They worked mighty fast though."

Another Chicago man, George M. Weiner, a naval guard, was on the upper deck and sighted the U-boat. The signal was quickly given as it came up on the port side of the transport. At once British destroyers rushed up at terrific speed encircling the submarine and dropping the barrage of depth charges.

Americans who landed near here were quickly brought to this camp. Most of them lacked clothing but were immediately fitted out by the generous hearted English.

W. M. Jefferies and Charles Bass, both of Atlanta, Ga., who were on the ship, said it was behind the rest of the convoy when the attack was made.

No Lives of Americans Lost, Says Washington; Few Details Learned

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 11.—There were no lives of American soldiers lost when a British transport with American troops on board was sunk by a German submarine. This statement was officially made this afternoon. No official statement of the attack has been prepared. The only announcement authorized was:

"The government has been advised that a British troopship carrying American soldiers has been torpedoed and sunk and that all of the soldiers were saved."

No details as to what particular units were on board the vessel when it was sunk are forthcoming. Officials were well pleased over the rescue, declaring that it showed that the escort and convoy system was working in splendid shape.

It is reported that a complet report will be forthcoming soon from Admiral Sims, commanding the American naval forces in foreign waters.

Because the vessel sunk was British, and therefore under the direct control of the British Admiralty, announcement of its sinking was made public first from London.

French Take Gibercourt; Repulse Counter-Attacks Near Nanteuil-la-Fosse

Paris, Sept. 11.—The French war communique:

"East of the Crozat Canal we have taken Gibercourt and made progress in the direction of Essigny-le-Grand and Hinacourt.

"South of the Ailette we repulsed two counter-attacks in the region of Nanteuil-la-Fosse.

"Enemy surprise attacks in the Argonne and Vosges were repulsed."

TUMULTY PRODS HAYS ON G. O. P. WAR SPEECH

Washington, Sept. 11.—Secretary to the President Joseph Patrick Tumulty, acting, it is understood, by direction of President Wilson, today sent a letter to Will Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, which may start a good old-fashioned political row.

He wants to know whether Mr. Hays has been correctly quoted on his version of the war aims of the Democratic party. In his letter Mr. Tumulty quotes a dispatch from the Topeka Capital, dated September 5, which quoted Mr. Hays as having said in addressing the conference of Republican State chairmen, held in Chicago on September 2, as follows:

"The Democratic leaders in Washington would not stop at anything that would insure the re-election of a Democratic Congress this Fall. They would even end the war with any kind of a compromise if that would insure the continuance of the Democratic party in power."

It is understood that President Wilson is very anxious to know whether these exact words were used by Mr. Hays.

Hays, seen at the quarters here of the Republican National Committee, refused to intimate what the nature of his reply to Tumulty would be.

"I have not yet received the letter from Mr. Tumulty," said Hays. "I will be very pleased indeed to receive it and shall be glad to reply, both as to what I have said at any time and as to what I believe the facts to be as to any subject matter which may be referred to in his letter."

"NEWSIE," HUSTLING TO HELP MOTHER, RUN DOWN

Salem, Sept. 11.—Leo Thibodeau, twelve, in on the danger list after being struck by an automobile today. Leo, a newsboy, was running across the street to sell a paper. The car was driven by John J. Lewis of No. 46 Ocean avenue, who was driving slowly and blew his horn. He rushed the child to a hospital. The boy is one of eight children, and his mother is largely dependent on his earnings for support of the family. The father died some years ago. One brother is in the army and one in the navy.

O.K. for Coal and Steel for Trucks

For Essential Business

The Men Who Know

The War Industries Board is composed of men who know conditions.

—men who know what is needed to win this war and just why it is needed.

—men with an absolute and first hand knowledge of what the Motor Truck means in time of war.

They know what Trucks are doing on the shell torn battlefields—they know how valuable they have been in relieving the railroad freight congestion — that existed and which for a time threatened to seriously retard the movement of war materials in course of shipment to Europe.

Having this information first hand, the War Industries Board put MOTOR Trucks on the Essential List and will see to it that they get steel and coal for essential business.

Wake Up, Mr. Merchant!

The U. S. Government endorses the use of Motor Trucks.

Do you need more convincing proof of the utility and saving of a motor truck in YOUR business?

And here's another point—if our Government considers the motor truck an essential in winning the war, is it not going to prove a super essential in peace?

Are You Sure

that your present motor equipment is going to be able to meet the demand of the after-the-war business that you will get?

You Naturally Will Go After New Business

You will use new methods.

New methods mean up-to-date methods.

Up-to-date methods mean Motor Trucks, because nothing else can meet the future day delivery demands as can the MOTOR TRUCK.

Now's the Time

to call in a truck expert. Let him study your hauling conditions. He will tell you the size and kind of a truck to buy. And he will tell you just how to use it to get the best in service and saving.

WOUNDED HEROES AT HOME BUT IN NEED OF FUNDS—WILL YOU HELP?

SUBSCRIPTION LISTS ARE OPEN; EVERY LITTLE BIT ASSISTS

Wounded and "broke!" That is a tough situation for a soldier who has paid his price for the Freedom of the World.

Wouldn't you like to help the gallant American soldiers who have been sent back here wounded from "Over There?"

The Boston AMERICAN'S Wounded Soldiers' Fund is open for contributions. It is designed to supply little luxuries—such as you would wish YOUR OWN BOY to have—but if spending money, and so on.

It is reported that wounded soldiers at Boston City Hospital were unable to mail letters to relatives and friends for lack of money to buy postage stamps, Uncle Sam being a hard- to-please sometimes, although a sure one in the end. The very idea of lack of postage money for wounded soldiers' mail caused your paper to contribute to a stamp fund for the wounded ones.

The names received today was forwarded to the Widow in the Court's time, and ask each of their friends for one stamp. I am sure none of our boys would hesitate to write to their dear ones at home for want of a few cents. Work every day, but am only too willing to do anything I can to help. The Boston AMERICAN is a great help to our boys, as they have always got what the boys needed. I hope with the aid of the public your good work will continue.

I shall "do my bit" each night until a sufficient amount for the boys at the hospital is received.

Sincerely yours,

MARY CARBONE.

Hospital Thanks American for Stamp Aid

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

I wish to express the appreciation of the Boston City Hospital and of all our returned wounded and also soldiers for the efforts of the Boston AMERICAN, and through your paper, to thank all friends who have contributed stamps and money.

The stamps have come in such numbers that we have been able not only to outfit the boys here for some time to come, but have also been able to send a large number to Fort Banks for the returned wounded at the hospital there. A certain number I am keeping for future convoys that we may have to take care of at the Boston City Hospital.

The cash which has been sent in we are going to distribute among our soldiers here to spend as they see fit.

Thanking you again, I am

Yours very truly,

EDMUND W. WILSON,

Acting Superintendent.

Boston, Sept. 10, 1918.

Dear Sir—Please accept these stamps from two little girls who saw the picture of the wounded soldier in your paper on Monday and wanted to know why the soldier didn't have any arm. When we were told about the soldiers and how they wanted to write to their folks at home, but couldn't because they didn't have any stamps, we at once offered to give our cards of Thrift Stamps to help out the boys. We are pupils at the Paul Jones School in East Boston.

Yours truly,

MARGARET SULLIVAN, eight years old.

ANNA SULLIVAN, seven years old.

Following is another letter received in the early morning mail:

Dear Sir—Enclosed you will find $1.60 which I collected from a few friends in less than an hour's time. I hope that this small sum will help some poor soldier boy. If every young girl would sacrifice one hour's time, and ask each of their friends for one stamp, I am sure none of our boys would hesitate to write to their dear ones at home for want of a stamp. I work every day, but am only too willing to do anything I can to help. The Boston AMERICAN is a great help to our boys, as they have always got what the boys needed. I hope with the aid of the public your good work will continue.

I shall "do my bit" each night until a sufficient amount for the

SPECIAL NOTICE.

LIEUT. OUIMET, GOLF STAR, WEDS BRIGHTON GIRL

Lieutenant Francis D. Ouimet and his bride, Miss Stella M. Sullivan, who were married this morning at Brighton. Lieutenant Ouimet is shown in his army uniform and Miss Sullivan in her bridal gown.

Lieutenant Francis D. Ouimet, former amateur golf champion, now in the U. S. Quartermaster's Department, stationed at Camp Meade, and Miss Stella Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sullivan of No. 29 Lake street, Brighton, were married today at St. Columbkille's Church. The Rt. Rev. John H. Peterson, president of St. John's Ecclesiastical Seminary, Brighton, celebrated a nuptial mass following the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white satin with a court train, a tulle veil with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and orchids.

Mrs. D. F. Sullivan, sister-in-law of the bride, who was matron of honor, wore blue satin with an overdress of lace, and a blue hat with red roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Nolan of Kenberma and Miss Marie Murphy of Dorchester. Their gowns were of orchid taffeta with blue and silver trimmings, and their bouquets were sweet peas and orchids.

The bridegroom, his brother, Private Raymond J. Ouimet of Fort Hancock, N. Y., who was best man, and the head usher, John H. Sullivan, Jr., seaman at Commonwealth Pier and a brother of the bride, were all in uniform. The other ushers were Thomas Green and George J. Rice of Brookline, and Edward Fallon of Swampscott. About a hundred guests were in attendance.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, following the ceremony. The couple will live at No. 45 Appleton road, Brighton.

"FISH TRUST" TRIAL SET FOR NOVEMBER 18

Assistant United States Attorney Edward Goodale announced today that November 18 had been fixed as the opening date of the trial of those involved in the alleged Fish Trust. The trial will be heard by Judge George H. Bingham of New Hampshire, Judge Charles F. Johnson of Maine, and a third judge who has not yet been named.

ADMINISTRATORS NAMED FOR SCHOEFFEL ESTATE

Judge Robert Grant has appointed Thomas J. Barry and Daniel A. Sullivan, special administrators for the estate of the late John B. Schoeffel, who was manager of the Tremont Theatre.

The administrators gave bonds in $200,000. It is known that Mr. Schoeffel made a will, and the administrators will prosecute a diligent search for it.

BISHOP JOHNSON'S SON ENLISTS IN TANK CORPS

William Johnson, son of Bishop Eben S. Johnson of the Methodist Episcopal Church, came all the way from South Africa to enlist in the tank corps. He was accepted in Boston and sent to Camp Colt, Gettysburg, Pa.

He did not want any commission, but was glad to get into war service as a private.

EDGAR REPORTS GRIP CAUSES 26 DEATHS

Declares Epidemic Abating, Captain Bryan Says Its Not "Spanish" Disease

Captain Edgar H. Bryan, sanitary officer of the Public Health Service said today:

"There is no cause for alarm. The disease reaches its maximum in six days. There is a high temperature going on and on for the first three in a cessation. Most cases reach their maximum in five days. It is hardly right to give it the name of Spanish influenza as it is nothing more than epidemic grip. We believe with the care and attention it will soon be under control and cases will continue to decrease, as is evident in today's bulletin.

Forty-two sailors from merchant ships at East Boston are today at the William A. Brooks Camp, Coney Hill, Brookline. In addition to thirty a number of officers and physicians say that before the day is over the total will reach more than 100.

HOSPITAL GUARDED.

Although physicians say that the disease is not communicable except through direct contact, all streets leading to the camp are closed and guarded. Twenty-five women nurses, in addition to a number from the Red Cross student courses, are in attendance. They wear gauze protection over the mouth and nose while at work.

Men from Company D of the 11th Regiment of the State Guard are doing guard duty, and no visitors are allowed. A gate keeper on the hill at night and the guardsmen were their heavy overcoats. The camp is named after Lieutenant-Colonel William A. Brooks, surgeon-general of the State Guard and founder of the Brooks Home, Inc.

FUNERAL OF VICTIM.

With sailors as escort and large delegations from various societies the funeral of Michael J. Tracy, seaman lately attached to Commonwealth Pier, was held this morning at the home of his sister, Mrs. William Mullen of No. 6 Eliot street, Jamaica Plain. A requiem high mass at St. Ambrose Church was celebrated by the Rev. William F. Casey of St. Patrick's Church; the Rev. John H. Horrigan of St. Ambrose and the Rev. Joseph H. Mahan of Brighton. There was music by a choir under Miss Mary McMorrow. Burial was at Calvary Cemetery. Tracy died of pneumonia following an attack of grip.

BIG GASOLINE SHORTAGE; MAY MEAN FURTHER SAVING

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 11—Figures on the production and consumption of gasoline in the United States forwarded by the fuel administration to the Senate this afternoon in response to a resolution by Senator Lodge, shows there is a large deficit and that orders further curtailing its use may be expected. "The figures show what is expected though the same," said Senator Lodge. "Of course no curtailment order would have been made unless the fuel administration figures showed a deficit. I don't know how large the deficit is going to be, but that reason may introduce a similar resolution calling for like information from the Bureau of Mines."

McCALL NAMES BOARD TO AID DISABLED SOLDIERS

Governor McCall today appointed the advisory board which, in conjunction with the State Board of Education, will establish a system of training and instruction for disabled soldiers and sailors. Those designated to ply their former pursuits will receive vocational training in other lines. The board is composed of Rudolph Coutidge, Jr., of Brookline; Guy Murchie of Dedham, George H. Brook of Boston, Ralph M. Baker of Lynn, Louis H. Buckley of Worcester, Jeremiah E. Mahoney, Lawrence; Richard H. Hammond of New Bedford, George H. Wrenn of Springfield and Miss Katherine A. Loring of Beverly.

HARVESTER COMPANIES COMBINE AS OF OLD

New York, Sept. 11—A merger has been voted of the two organizations by the stockholders of the International Harvester Company of New Jersey and the International Harvester Corporation, the name adopted in the merger being the International Harvester Company. The business conditions which led to the separation into two companies in 1913 no longer exist, it is said by John J. McCormick, president of the International Harvester Company of New Jersey, in calling the merger.

The administrators gave bonds in $200,000. It is known that Mr. Schoeffel made a will, and the administrators will prosecute a diligent search for it.

SHIPWORKERS SEND PLEDGE TO FOCH

New York, Sept. 11.—Inspired by the launching of the United States steel steamer Wilmington, last Saturday, 2,000 shipworkers from the shipyard, Morris Heights, sent a telegram to Marshal Foch. They thanked him for his achievements and pledged themselves to work every day till victory is won. Marshal Foch cabled a reply, it read:

"Deeply moved by your congratulations. I thank you for your noble resolution. We count on you as well as you can rely on us.

(Signed) "Marshal Foch."

MOVE TO EXHUME BODY IN SKEELS CASE HALTED

Legal Difficulties Threaten Plan for Further Probe of Death of Nurse's Brother

Legal difficulties confronting the proposed exhumation of the body of Miss Rose May Skeels, the Bayonne, N. J., nurse under arrest at Lowestoft, accused of poisoning Miss Florence Gay, a nurse in Alfred Ashton, Andover, were predicted by Assistant District Attorney James Clarke of Hudson County, N. J., who is conducting an investigation among Miss Skeels' relatives at Bayonne.

DIED SUDDENLY.

Wilkens died suddenly on July 7, last, supposedly from "gastro enteritis," or inflammation of the stomach. The body was interred in Cedar Mound Cemetery, Paterson, N. J., which is under the jurisdiction of authorities of Passaic County, instead of Hudson County, in charge of the case at Bayonne, announced that the exhumation order would be issued by Judge Dale and Arthur F. Haskins of Hudson County after a consultation with Prosecutor Alfred Ackerman, who is away during his last illness. County Attorney Clarke said:

"The circumstances in the case are such that we must proceed cautiously. The exhumation order will be issued as has been recommended but no date has been set. The fact that Mr. Wilkens' remains were interred in Cedar Mound Cemetery, Paterson, under the jurisdiction of another county may involve legal difficulties. Complications of this nature will undoubtedly cause some delay. But this delay will not prevent the exhumation of the remains of Mrs. Skeels' brother if the investigation now in progress so justifies such action."

Traces of arsenic were discovered in the stomach of Miss Gay, who was nursed during her fatal illness by Miss Skeels, according to the testimony of Dr. Frank W. E. Whitney of Harvard Medical School, it is said.

POISONING HINTED.

It is the opinion of Dr. Seesmith, who attended Wilkens, that the illness which resulted in his death was not a character such as would have been caused by arsenic poisoning.

Miss Skeels accuses Mrs. Edith Molawitz, bride of Winchester, a nurse in the Mass. General Hospital, investigation into Miss Gay's death is being conducted.

Another woman who figures in the case is Miss Grace Watson of Andover, as was the mother of Miss Florence Gay when she died.

Reid, Princeton Star, Is Killed Trying to Save Comrade

New York, Sept. 11—Lieutenant Samuel Reid, famous Princeton football player of a dozen years ago, was killed in action August 30, while rescuing a member of his command from a demolished dugout. Word of his death was brought to America by Lieutenant William Alexander, a fellow officer of the 369th Infantry. Alexander and Reid have been classmates at the home in Brooklyn.

According to Armstrong, the man for whom Hedgegas lie life had been wounded and placed in a dugout. When a shell opened in the roof, he cries for help attracted the lieutenant's attention. He dragged the man out, slung him over his shoulder and started with him to a place of safety. He had gone only a few steps when a bomb exploded at his feet, killing both him and the wounded soldier.

SOLDIERS HAVE ALL THE SAY, DECLARES BAKER

Those were the closest advices from the front that the public had today, with the significant statement made by Secretary of War Baker to the French press:

"It rarely, if ever, happens that the military authorities have to restrain the impetuosity of our troops. The soldiers have all the say."

SILENT PRAYER FOR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

The silent prayer of five minutes for soldiers and sailors in service has been observed in Boston and vicinity since the regular weekly hooks on Friday was called to observance by all the congregation. A special donation for soldiers and sailors has been set aside by the Boston Elks' Lodge, so that they will not be kept waiting.

ROXBURY BOY IS ON WOUNDED LIST

Private James P. Canavan, reported in the casualty list as severely wounded during the fighting on July 20 to 23, is the son of John Canavan of 6 Wellington street, Roxbury. He is a member of Company B, 101st Infantry. He enlisted more than a year ago in the old Eighth Massachusetts Regiment, which later became the 101st. He was born in Roxbury twenty-one years ago.

SMALL GAINS BY ACTIVE STOCK ISSUES

Proposal That Liberty Bonds Be Exempted From Taxation Causes Rise in Price

Trading was quiet today, but many active issues showed substantial gains. Utah Copper registered the greatest gains, the 6 points made bringing the price to 94½. Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad shares were also in demand, as was McAdoo's proposal that Congress exempt Liberty bonds from taxation for a limited period, which is also in the form of free securities. SEEK THOUSANDS OF REGISTRARS TO ENROLL MEN TOMORROW

Interpreters Are Required in Districts Where Many Residents Speak Foreign Languages.

being made by Lieutenant Leon M. Little of Naval Headquarters.

Major-General Crozier, commanding the Department of the Northeast, issued orders to Colonel Albert S. Williams, chief of staff, to show in every army band in Boston in service on registration day. The United States Guards Band, stationed at Commonwealth Armory, will use the musical instruments given them by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston for the first time.

Everyone having an American flag is urged to display it Tomorrow.

Thousands of additional registrars are needed in Boston and Massachusetts tomorrow.

Interpreters, in particular, are required for service in the districts which have a large number of persons who speak a foreign language.

Division 4, with headquarters in City Hall, is a typical example of such a district. It has seventy-five registrars and assistant registrars enrolled, but the services of from 200 to 500 are needed for the great rush which is expected between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. tomorrow.

Mayor Peters has granted the request of the Boston central draft committee that the clerks of the city assessor's, collector's and treasurer's offices report for emergency duty at No. 1 Beacon street tomorrow. From there they will be sent to points where their services may be required.

Every man from eighteen to 45, both inclusive, must register some time tomorrow between 7 o'clock in the morning and 9 o'clock at night. This does not apply to men who registered in the first draft or to men now in the service of the Army or Navy. But it does apply to all others of these ages.

Find the nearest registration booth to your home and go there as early as possible. Simply answer the questions put to you, and the registrar will fill out the registration card and sign the registration certificate. The latter will be given to you. Be careful not to lose it.

For your benefit the AMERICAN gives you complete instructions as to how to answer each one of them. Read the instructions and guard against mistakes.

SPACE NO. 1.

In for the name. Give the full name, as "John Joseph Farrell," not forgetting the middle name.

SPACE NO. 2.

In for the permanent home address. This means where you live NOW. Be prepared to give it in full, as "759 Huntington Avenue, Boston, Suffolk County, Mass." Or if there is no street number, then give as "R. F. D. No. 2, Natick, Worcester County, Mass." If you live in an apartment house, give the number of the apartment. If your address is "in care" of someone, give the name and address of this someone. If sleeping and you expect to be away from home for some time, tell where a questionnaire may be sent.

SPACE NO. 3.

In for age in years; say "19" or "42," or whatever it is. Never omit the months and days.

SPACE NO. 4

In for the date of birth, as "June 25, 1899." If you don't remember the year, say "Sixty years old on Oct. 31," when I will be 60, or whatever the age is. The registrar will then figure the year of birth as 1858.

SPACE NO. 5.

If you are white, the registrar will place a check mark in this space.

SPACE NO. 6.

If you are a negro, the registrar will place a check mark in this space.

SPACE NO. 7.

If you are an Oriental the registrar will place a check mark in this space.

SPACE NO. 8.

If you are a citizen, Indian born, in the United States, the registrar will place a check mark in this space.

SPACE NO. 9.

If you are a non-citizen, Indian born, in the United States, the registrar will place a check mark in this space.

SPACE NO. 10.

If you are a native-born citizen of the United States the registrar will place a check mark in this space and will leave blank on your card space 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15. Those born in Alaska and Hawaii are native-born citizens of the United States, no matter what the citizenship of their parents. If you have learned that you are a citizen of the United States if your parents were citizens of the United States at the time of your birth, unless you have since renounced your citizenship.

Any inhabitant of Porto Rico, who was a citizen of Porto Rico on April 11, 1899, and who resided in Porto Rico on that date and continued to reside there until March 2, 1917, is held to be a citizen of Porto Rico, except such inhabitant as, having elected to preserve his allegiance to the crown of Spain under the provisions of the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain proclaimed April 11, 1899, has failed to make a declaration before a court of record in Porto Rico above the age of 21 years of such election, and who, having removed therefrom, has failed to make a declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States, provided he did not become a citizen of Porto Rico by making such declaration under oath of his intention to do so within six months after March 2, 1917.

SPACE NO. 11.

If you are a naturalized citizen of the United States, the registrar will place a check mark in this space and leave spaces 10, 12, 13, 14 and 15 blank. Be careful to answer correctly the questions relative to your naturalization. You can find out from your father if you have completed your naturalization before you were of age, and if so, the date and court. But you are not a citizen if you have only your "first papers." In that case you are a declarant.

SPACE NO. 12.

If you are a citizen by your father's naturalization, or your mother's naturalization, in the manner fixed before you attained your majority, the registrar will place a check mark in this space and leave spaces 10, 11, 13, 14 and 15 blank. The children of persons who have become citizens of the United States by reason of the naturalization of their parents before the age of twenty-one at the time of such naturalization and residing in the United States before attaining their majority are citizens.

SPACE NO. 13.

If you are a declarant alien the registrar will place a check mark in this space and leave spaces 10, 11, 12 and 14 blank. If you are a declarant, if although a citizen or subject of some other country you have taken out "first papers" you are a non-declarant alien.

SPACE NO. 14.

If you are a non-declarant alien, the registrar will place a check mark in this space, leaving spaces 10, 11, 12 and 13 blank. If you are a citizen of some other country than the United States and have not taken out "first papers" you are a non-declarant alien.

SPACE NO. 15.

This space is only to be filled by the registrar in the case of declarant or non-declarant aliens. Give the name of the city or town in which you were born and the country as "Liverpool, England," or "Dublin, Ireland" or "Portugal, Russia." If you do not remember the exact name of the town, give the city nearest to the town. In the case of Czechoslovaks, Austrian Poles, Austrian Germans, etc., the registrar may answer "Czechoslovakia," "Austria-Hungary," "Austria" or "Germany" if these are more definite. Persons born in Austria-Hungary, claimed as subject of Austria.

SPACE NO. 16.

Give your present occupation, trade or employment. If other words will do, say what you are doing now to earn your living. Be brief as "farmer," "shoemaker," "weaver," "machinist," "student" if in school or college. If a merchant or an executive for a factory state that fact. If you hold an office under State or Federal government, name the office you hold.

SPACE NO. 17.

Give your employer's name. If you work for a firm or corporation give the name, such as "Jones Machine Tool Co." "The Leading Manufacturing Co." If one for an individual give his name. If in business, trade, profession or employment for yourself, say so. If you are an officer of State or Federal government, state whether you hold office under the United States, the State, the county or the city.

SPACE NO. 18.

Give the number and name of the street, rooms in which you are employed. If no streets or rooms or no. P. O. number if there is no street number.

SPACE NO. 19.

Give name of nearest relative. If married and your wife is living, give her name. If single or widowed, give the name of your nearest blood relative. If your relatives live in Ireland or far away give the name of your nearest friend.

SPACE NO. 20.

Give the address of nearest relative or friend, giving number and name of the street, city or town and the country and state. If there is no street number give the rural free delivery number.

Draftees Advised How to Fill Questionnaire

The Boston AMERICAN gives today the fourth in the series of articles which will explain each successive step in filling out a questionnaire. The information is supplied by a chairman of a draft board out of his experience in handling hundreds of questionnaires.

The articles already published explain how to answer correctly the general questions in series 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. Series 6 and 7 are explained today.

SERIES 6.
Military or Naval Service.

Men in the service or the Army of Navy on Registration Day do not have to register. But men who have entered after Registration Day must answer the questions in this series. Every man must answer the first question.

Q. 1—Are you in any branch of the military or naval service of the United States?

Ans.—Give a direct answer "Yes" or "No." If your answer is "No" ignore the remainder of the questions in Series 6.

Q. 2—Give your (a) rank, (b) organization or corps, (c) branch of the service and (d) mail address.

Ans.—State whether you are a private, sergeant, lieutenant or captain. Then state "Company C, 166th Regiment," or whatever company or regiment it is. For branch of the service state "Artillery," "Infantry," "Quartermaster Corps," "Aviation" or "Navy" or whatever it is you have joined. Then give the address by which mail reaches you.

Q. 3—State the (a) date, (b) place, and (c) manner in which you entered the service.

Ans.—State the date, as "September 15, 1918," the place as "Boston" and the manner as "by enlistment."

SERIES 7.
Citizenship.

Q. 1—Are you a citizen of the United States?

Ans.—Give a direct answer, "Yes" or "No." A man is a citizen of the United States who was born in Alaska and Hawaii. In some cases persons born in Porto Rico are United States citizens.

Q. 2—Where and on what date were you born?

Ans.—If in the United States give the city and State. If not in the United States state where as "Virginia" or "Texas" or "London, England." If you cannot remember the date recall how old you were on your last birthday and when that occurred. Then you can figure it out.

Q. 3—If you were born in the United States, state (a) at what place; and (b) on what date you arrived in this country and (c) whether you came with your father or mother or either of them.

Ans.—State the place you landed as "Boston" or "New York" or wherever it was. Tell when as "June 15, 1890," or whenever it was. State whether both your father and mother were with you or just one of your parents and which one.

Q. 4—If you are a citizen of the United States, naturalized upon application by you, state when and where you were so naturalized.

Ans.—State when you took out your "second papers" as "Boston, August 16, 1892," or whatever the date and city.

Q. 5.—If you are not a citizen of the United States, either native born or fully naturalized, answer the following: (a) Of what country are you a citizen or subject? (b) In what place and country did you ordinarily reside before proceeding to the United States? (c) Have you ever taken out first papers (that is, declared your intention to become a citizen of the United States)? (d) If so, when and where did you take out your first papers?

Ans.—Give the name of the country as "Russia," "Poland," "Portugal," or whatever it is. Give the city or town in which you resided and if you cannot remember it give the province. State whether you have ever taken out first papers, and if you cannot remember the month and date give the number of years ago. Then state the city as "Boston" or "Worcester" or "Springfield" or wherever it was.

Q. 6—If you are not a citizen of the United States and have not declared your intention to become a citizen, do you claim exemption from service in the army of the United States on that ground?

Ans.—It is your intention not to serve in the United States army because you are an alien answer "Yes." If you are willing to serve answer "No."

Q. 7—If you are not a citizen of the United States and have not declared your intention to become a citizen, are you willing to return to your native country and enter its military service?

Ans.—Give a direct answer "Yes" or "No."

Q. 8—Give the birthplace and present residence of both of your parents?

Ans.—State where your father and mother were born, as "Edinburg, Scotland," or wherever it was. State where they are living now. If you do not know the city or town state the province.

Q. 9—If your parents or either of them live in the United States, state how long each has resided in this country?

Ans.—State the number of years. If you have given the date of their arrival previously say "Since arrival."

Q. 10—If either of your parents has been naturalized in the United States, state (a) which parent; (b) when and where naturalized?

Ans.—State if your father was naturalized and the time and place. State whether your mother was naturalized also and the time and place.

Q. 11—Have you ever voted or registered anywhere in the United States, if so, when and where.

Ans.—State if you have voted and where, as "Boston," "Cambridge" or "Chelsea" or wherever. State whether you have registered and when and where.

Q. 12—If you are a citizen or subject of a country neutral in the present war and have declared your intention to become a citizen of the United States, name the neutral country of which you are a citizen or subject.

Ans.—Among the neutral countries are Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Switzerland. If you are a native or subject of any of the following countries then you are not a neutral: Belgium, Brazil, China, Costa Rica, Cuba, France, Great Britain, Greece, Guatamala, Haiti, Honduras, Italy, Japan, Liberia, Montenegro, Nicaragua, Panama, Portugal, Russia, San Marino, Serbia, Siam, Austria-Hungary, Germany, Bulgaria and Turkey.

Q. 13.—Do you wish to be relieved from liability to military service by withdrawing your intention to become a citizen of the United States upon the conditions named in the foregoing note to Question No. 12?

Ans.—Give a direct answer "Yes" or "No." Neutrals who answer "Yes" will be relieved from service in the draft army but will never be allowed to become citizens of the United States. If you answer "Yes" your draft board will send you forms to fill out renouncing your right to become a citizen of the United States.

Q. 14—State (a) when you were allotted; (b) when your father was allotted; (c) when your mother was allotted.

Ans.—This question is for Indians only. An Indian born in the United States is a citizen if (1) he or his father or mother prior to his birth or before he attained the age of 21 was allotted land or received a patent in fee prior to May 8, 1906; (2) if he was allotted land subsequent to May 8, 1906, and received a patent in fee to his land; (3) if he was residing in the old Indian Territory on March 3, 1901; (4) if he lives separate and apart from his tribe and has adopted the habits of civilized life.

Q. 15—Have you ever received a patent in fee to your land?

Ans.—Give a direct answer "Yes" or "No."

Q. 16—State (a) whether you live separate and apart from any tribe; (b) if so, when you intend to return to tribal life; and (c) how long you have lived away from tribal life.

Ans.—If you live apart from your tribe, state the fact and your intention to return. If you intend to return. Also the length of time you have lived away from your tribe.

DRAFT QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Men From 18 to 45 Puzzled Over Replies to Be Made in Questionnaire Will Be Set Right by American.

Does some question about the draft puzzle you? Are you in doubt about how you should answer some query in Uncle Sam's questionnaire? The Boston AMERICAN will help you out of your dilemma. Just ask the questions and this paper will furnish the replies through an expert, Dr. Thomas F. Harrington, chairman of District Board No. 5.

Address your letters to "Draft Editor, Boston AMERICAN, No. 89 Summer street, Boston, Mass." Then watch the paper for the answers.

Some of the questions asked and their answers follow:

I was eighteen years of age last March, so if taken it will not be for regular duty. I have had three years of high school and have been working since. Physically I am as fit as far as I know, although not of strong build. Am I eligible for the S. A. T. C.? If so, must I wait until they call or may I go before? What are the courses, and is it necessary to take regular college courses?

J—I have worked in a studio doing operating and developing for a year, and for several years have done a little photographic work on the side. I am by no means an expert of course. So figure a competent one-day school where one of my age and experience and results?

A—If I am taken, and at the time have no dependents, but during the course of my training my mother should become wholly or partially dependent, what arrangements would be taken for her welfare?

VICTOR D. ELMIRE, West Somerville.

Ans.—You must register and wait until called. Your status will be decided later. Leading educators are much interested in what the government is going to do about boys attending high schools and secondary schools. It may be that the government will extend the ruling permitting them to join the Student's Army Training Corps. The courses have not been determined upon.

2—There is no government-controlled school of the type you ask about. An opportunity is given on the questionnaire to state your qualifications. The same is true of the by that accompanies it.

3—All that is provided for by the selective service regulations, state grant and war risk insurance.

I am eighteen years of age and very anxious to get into military service. How might I do so after I have registered?

WILLIAM S. CROSS, Roxbury.

Ans.—All this is arranged by the selective service law. You will be called in regular order. Voluntary enlistment is not permitted at present.

Draft Editor—I am tall, thirty-three years of age and have a father and mother in Italy and am their sole support, though they have a little from other sources. May I claim deferred classification? So are documents needed to prove my statements? My present occupation is that of weaver and I am working with the American Woolen Co., weaving cloth for soldiers' coats. On this account may I get deferred classification? I have a certain physical defect, but am an accomplished horseman. Will I make any member of the U. S. cavalry?

T. HENZO.

Providence, R. I.

Ans.—State all the facts in the questionnaire and your local draft board will deal with them properly in accordance with the selective service law. Application is made in the questionnaire for all the matters you ask about.

Draft Editor—

I would like to ask you a question about my name. My real name is Abraham Ogens, but I have changed it to Abraham Odgens for the sake of theirs, and my entire family does under that name. Will I be allowed to register under the name of Abraham Goldstein, and not under the name of Ogens, Khaki? Also, is there any matter of such importance and what name I should register under.

ABRAHAM OGENS, Roxbury.

Ans.—Tell the facts to the legal adviser who will be in attendance at the office of your local board. Follow his advice on a legal question of your correct name is to be decided.

Draft Editor—Could you please tell me if either will need any one to help in registering the men for the coming draft? I would be glad to offer my services. I can do typewriting and some shorthand. Hoping that I may be of some service to you.

MISS MARY E. BUTTERFIELD.

No. 16 Cleon street, Dorchester.

Ans.—Volunteer at the local board nearest your home. I am sure the officials there will be happy to have you assist them. You are doing a big thing in helping the officials. It is real patriotism. Good luck to you.

Draft Editor—I was born in New Bedford, Mass., July 2, 1872. When the police were listing the citizens this year I gave my age as thirty-eight as it was taken before the lodging and they think I am only that far. I didn't want them to think me different. Can you see any reason for giving it to me? Now I don't wish to be considered a slacker as I am anything from the heart. Shall I register or not as I don't want to get in any trouble or be left out for registering.

ARTHUR C. RICHERSON.

No. 16 Hopedale street, Dorchester.

Ans.—It's a pretty good idea not to be over about one's age. Only women are supposed to do that. Don't register if you are over the age limit, 31 per cent.

Draft Editor—I enlisted in Greenfield Company in May, that is 10th Company, and I hurt my right foot. In July they sent me to Springfield Hospital, and I stayed there six weeks, and they couldn't do anything for me. They sent me to Westfield, where the company moved, and within the remainder went away. I was sent to the 4th Regiment to wait for a discharge. I stayed there till the 15th of November, and when I left I did know be if I will have to register on the 12th or not. Please let me know. I will not have to, as I am now my discharge in full the same as a registration card.

EDITH M. SITTFIELD, Miller Falls.

Ans.—You must register if you are not in the United States service, September 12.

Draft Editor—I am a motorman. Supposing that I go to the reclamation place near to me home and find that the place is so filled that I must go a mile and the same person named for duties or other mileage that come to railroad men. Have I the privilege and right to go to the fourth nearest the station from which I work or must I return to my home place?

2—Supposing an error is made and the questionnaire spoiled, can extra copy be had?

3—In case one does not understand parts of the questionnaire where should one apply to get the needed information?

STEPHEN H. GREEN,

1120 Washington street, Dorchester.

Ans.—1—Go to the nearest registration place near your work, secure a card and fill it to your own local. In return you will get another card.

2—Yes, you can secure another copy.

3—The government has appointed legal advisers for each local board. These lawyers will be on duty at the registration places and their services are free to registrants.

Draft Editor—I am Canadian born and have served in the Canadian army during the present war. I was discharged September 28, 1918, as being medically unfit for further service. Since March 10, 1917, I have lived in Minneapolis, Minn. I came East to New Hampshire in May, 1918, for a rest and will return to Minnesota on September 16, 1918. Will you please give me full information about registering. I am thirty-seven years of age. Do have to register here or in Minneapolis? R. D. BAKER,

No. 1094 Elm street, Manchester, N. H.

Ans.—Get card from local board at Manchester and forward it to Minneapolis local and you'll get another from that one.

Draft Editor—I am American born, of Polish parentage, and my name is Wojciech Cannaski. I left home when I was fourteen years of age and have been in the care of Al Young for the past eighteen years. I am known under this name and always worked under this name likewise belong to many societies under this name. In fact, I myself am more connected with this name as the other is so hard for people to spell and pronounce. That is one reason why I took the other. Now, then, would I be committing a crime on registration day to register as Al Young?

AL YOUNG,

41 Auburn street, Roslindale.

Ans.—Register under your correct name and add "alias Al Young."

Draft Editor:

I am 45 years of age and weigh 105 pounds. I do not consider myself entitled to industrial exemption and cannot claim it. If I waive exemption, will that mean that in spite of my being well under the required weight I can be called for limited service? As the ruling reads I don't seem to have much option in the matter and would like and appreciate your opinion. I am an elevator, but (not being good military material) have a moderately good job and six years' credit toward an old age pension—an important item at 45, and naturally do not wish to have this service broken or interrupted.

EDWIN R. FAIRCHILD, Cambridge.

Ans.—You cannot be called for any service if you weigh under 110 pounds.

Draft Editor:

Please inform me whether a registrant in the draft who is under 21 years of age should present his birth certificate when registering?

C. W. RICHARDSON, Mattapan.

Ans.—Yes.

Lemon Juice For Freckles

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for a few cents. Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter-pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.—Advertisement.

DEMOCRACY. BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1918. LIBERTY.

OFFICER SCHOOL MEN PICKED ON MERITS

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Sept. 11.—Since the announcement yesterday of the names of 249 enlisted men who are to attend officers' training camps at Camps Grant and Taylor, September 16, the work of the Personnel Department of the new army becomes more and more apparent.

The men have been selected purely on their merits, as the watchword of the new army is "the right man in the right place."

Whether any man will be sent from Camp Devens to attend the students' army training corps at the colleges this Fall has not yet been announced, but it is probable that many of the students at the various colleges will take courses at the schools in this camp.

A statement just made public says among other things:

"Officers' uniforms, rifles and such other equipment as may be available will be furnished by the War Department, as previously announced.

EXPERTS TO TRAIN MEN.

"The student soldiers will be given military instruction under officers of the army and will be kept under observation and test to determine their qualifications as officer-candidates and technical experts, such as engineers, chemists and doctors. After a certain period, the men will be selected according to their performance, and assigned to military duty in one of the following ways:

"He may be transferred to a central officers' training camp.

"He may be transferred to a non-commissioned officers' training school.

"He may be assigned to the school where he is enrolled for further intensive work in a specified line for a limited specified time.

"He may be assigned to the vocational training section of the corps for technical training of military value.

"He may be transferred to a cantonment for duty with troops as a private.

BOOTLEGGERS GO TO JAIL.

"Similar sorting and reassignment of the men will be made at periodical intervals, as the requirements of the service demand. It cannot be now definitely stated how long a particular student will remain at college. This will depend on the requirements of the mobilization and the age group in which he belongs. In order to keep the unit at adequate strength, men will be admitted from secondary schools or transferred from depot brigades as the need may require."

Two bootleggers were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Mahoney in the Aver Court today. They were charged with selling liquor to soldiers in Lowell. They are Alex Sadik and Joseph Thompson, both of Lowell. They were held in $500 for the Federal Grand Jury and being unable to furnish bail were sent to the Lowell Jail.

Names of 248 men from this camp who are to attend the new officers' training camps, which open September 16 were made public today. One hundred and seventy-two will go to Camp Grant, Ill., to train for infantry commissions, and seventy-seven will go to Camp Taylor to become artillery officers.

It was so cold here early today that overcoats were in great demand. Frost was noticeable. Several pools of water caused by Sunday's rain storm were coated with thin ice.

TO AMUSE RADIO BOYS DESPITE INFLUENZA

United States Naval Radio School, Cambridge, Sept. 11.—Extra amusement for the radio students during the quarantine period because of Spanish influenza have been provided by the Y. M. C. A. war camp. Sporting paraphernalia of various descriptions has been supplied and the men are making the most of the athletic offering.

The parade ground is being used by a number of the students for football practice, tossing the basketball and other outdoor amusements.

A big feature at the school for the purpose of keeping the quarantined men in good spirits is an unusually attractive open-air moving picture program.

SOMERVILLE BOY IS HONORED FOR GALLANTRY

Private Charles L. Cameron, cited in the latest foreign dispatches as having rendered conspicuously gallant service for gallantry in action, is a resident of Somerville, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cameron of No. 16 Willow avenue, Somerville. He is a private of a Company, 104th Machine Gun Battalion.

Private Cameron was born in Nova Scotia, August 31, 1895, but was educated in the public schools of Somerville. He graduated from the High School (Academic) with the class of 1913.

How much are good-looking SERGE DRESSES? Here are some at $14 and $15

THREE big shops of lower-priced dresses

THE woman left high and dry on the same old income, and the woman of means who patriotically prefers to buy good, inexpensive clothes and put more money into War Savings Stamps can both profit by Filene values in lower priced dresses. There is no temptation to spend more money in a shop where the top price is $14 or $15.

Here the lower-priced dresses do not get the tail-end of a busy dress buyer's time. Women's dresses from $8 to $14 and from $1.50 to $7.50 are in two separate shops on the sixth floor and get ALL of one buyer's time and thought and ALL the time and thought of his assistants.

Misses' dresses from $1.50 to $15 are in a separate shop on the fourth floor. Obviously, this sort of specialization results in a better job—in Filene values with a surprising amount of style.

Wool serge dresses (possible only because we bought our own materials months ago)

Satin dresses

Serge and satin dresses

Crepe de Chine dresses

Taffeta dresses

Lingerie dresses

Filene machine-made dresses for war-workers, $1.50 to $7.50

Farmerettes

Khaki twill overalls will do good service for many things besides farming. $2.50.

In blue gingham, $2.25.

Munitions workers

Khaki twill coveralls made with drop seat and adjustable ankle. $4.

Housekeepers

Goodlooking collars and pockets distinguish these house dresses of neatly striped gingham. $4.

Maids in the home

Black soisette uniforms with crispy white collars and cuffs of organdie. $4.50.

Student nurses

Blue chambray uniforms to be had either with high neck, long sleeves, or low neck, short sleeves. $4.50.

Filene's—mail orders filled—sixth floor

Women's new serge tailored dresses, $14

Sketched at left, women's serge redingote dresses with very good lines and smart satin collar and tucked vestee. $14.

Sketched at right, women's crepe de Chine tunic dresses, plaited, with large collar and vestee of Georgette. $14.

Filene's—mail orders filled—sixth floor.

Misses' serge street dresses, $15

The sketch shows one style that sells on sight. It has a new looking plain front and nice tight sleeves. Navy blue serge (fine serge) $15.

Three big cases are filled with misses' good-looking dresses of good wool serge at $15. One navy blue dress stands out for bands of black silk Hercules braid; another pretty navy blue serge has a surplice blouse with sash ends in back; a good-looking brown serge dress has a tunic. All are Filene values at $15.

Misses' new satin dresses, $13.50 and $15.

Misses' new percale and gingham house dresses, $1.50 to $10.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fourth floor.

CUTICURA HEALS BABY'S FACE

Of Pimples, Festered and Scaled Off. Could Not Take Him Out.

"Pimples appeared on my baby's face. After three or four days they festered and scaled off and then they got thick and his face was literally covered. He would sleep only half an hour at a time. I could not take him out.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura. After using it he went to sleep so I bought more, and I used one box of Ointment with two cakes of Soap and his face was healed." (Signed) Mrs. John McGrath, 87 Washington St., Canton, Mass., Dec. 30, 1917.

Keep your skin healthy by using Cuticura Soap daily for the toilet, and Cuticura Ointment for first signs of pimples, redness or roughness.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address post-card: "Cuticura, Dept. X, Boston." Sold everywhere. Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c.

DISCHARGED OFFICER APPEALS FROM DECISION

Reserveman John P. Hanley of the Malden police who was discharged from the force on charges of receiving money from motorists whom he stopped for minor infractions of the traffic rules, has appealed from the decision of Police Commissioner Barbank and has filed the appeal in the Malden Court.

RESINOL CLEARS AWAY EMBARRASSING PIMPLES

March 30.—"Some time ago pimples began to appear on my forehead and spread so that people remarked about them, and I didn't like to go anywhere on that account. I tried various creams, soaps and skin remedies, but nothing seemed to help me. A friend of mine who had the same trouble told me she cleared her skin with Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, so I tried them. After the first application all the redness and soreness disappeared, and after two or three applications my friends began to ask me what I used, my face looked so much better.

"Now I can go to places without being ashamed of those awful pimples, and I will never be without Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap." (Signed) Miss Jessie Terrance, 67 Beech St., Rutherford, N. J.

All druggists sell Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap.

Face Peeling Easy—Blonde or Brunette

"The blonde's complexion fades early, because it is delicate and marvellously thin and fine," says Mme. Lina Cavalieri. "The brunette's, on the other hand, is the reverse. The skin is thicker and has a tendency to an oily appearance.

"For either the faded blonde's skin or the brunette's oily or sallow complexion the best remedy is ordinary mercolized wax. Used every night this will give one an entirely new complexion within about a week or two. The wax gradually peels off the worn-out surface skin, with all its defects, a little each day, without affecting the delicate underskin in the least. The latter will then show the beautiful glow of youth—indeed, one may readily take ten or twenty years off her age, so far as appearance goes, by a course of this simple treatment. The wax, procurable at any drug store, is applied like cold cream.—Advertisement.

BOSTON SCHOOLS AID IN PEACH STONE WORK

Receptacles for peach stones gathered by boys and girls for the Boston AMERICAN'S peach-stone collection for the government, will be placed in the basement of every public school in Boston.

Orders to this effect were issued to janitors today by Superintendent Frank Thompson of the schools, following a meeting of the School Committee last night, when the matter was taken up. Similar orders have been issued in Cambridge by Superintendent of Schools Michael E. Fitzgerald.

This will simplify the collection of the thousands of peach stones which are being gathered throughout the city by boys and girls.

It is hardly necessary to repeat it again, but peach stones are needed by the War Department to make the charcoal which is contained in the gas masks worn by our soldiers at the front and which save them from the deadly fumes of the German poisonous gases.

Get your bag and badge, then, boys and girls, and get after the peach stones! Every one helps may save a soldier's life. Those who today enrolled in the AMERICAN'S gas mask brigade are:

WHY EVERYONE SHOULD SEE "FRIENDLY ENEMIES"

Friendly Enemies is so vital, so timely, that it amazes you while it thrills you.
Its lines might have been taken from the front pages of the newspapers hot from the press.
Its story so closely parallels the big story of Foch's drive that it sounds like prophecy come true.
One character says: "We are going to give Hindenburg a d——n good licking," and we are!
And the whole play is so up-to-the-minute that it sweeps the audience before it as resistlessly as the Germans are being swept out of France.
Join the crowds today and see Lew Fields in Friendly Enemies with Charles Winninger.

J. P. COLLINS
Boston's Piano King

SELLING pianos without profit at cut price clean-up sales is not unusual with me. Please don't gather the impression that my business is wholly profitless. I make some profit. Compared with other profits I think mine are very, very modest. The piano business is only one of my various activities, so I do not depend entirely on my piano department for my business welfare. That is why I can and do sell the different makes at such low prices. All Boston and New England people are acquainted with the best makes of pianos and they know that I handle them—new and used—and sell them as I do widely known that I sell them at prices far lower than any other dealer. I am at present conducting a big Cut-Price Clean-up Sale, and I promise the public the wonder piano bargains of piano bargain history. What would you want at a saving of many many dollars?

"HAND OF VENGEANCE" HAS BOTH SPEED AND PUNCH

John Ultos and the Gray Lady in the "Hand of Vengeance," the new ten-episode serial soon to be produced by the Gordon-Mayer Film Corporation.

The Gordon-Mayer Film Corporation announces the coming release of a new serial in ten episodes. It is entitled "The Hand of Vengeance," and was produced by Gaumont. The distribution of the entire New England States will be under the Gordon-Mayer distributing forces.

A ten-episode serial is something new. Serials in the past have been made in fourteen, sixteen and even eighteen and twenty episodes. There are many things in favor of a short serial. One in particular is that it does not extend over such a prolonged time and the public can find out what happens to the hero and heroine, the villian and the rest of the plot and story much sooner.

Gaumont has long since won a high name for its productions, and the Gaumont stamp means everything to picture lovers. The Gordon-Mayer Film Corporation also has already made a name for itself for the quality of the products it handles. Louis B. Mayer, president and general manager of the firm, is considered one of the most astute showmen and judges of pictures in the business.

"The Hand of Vengeance" is a serial that gets away from the wild and improbable that predominates so thoroughly in most serials. It has the punch and the speed, and it has mystery and love and all the elements of the melodramatic that make serials so interesting, yet it is in no way grewsome. It is a serial that the children will go with about and yet there is nothing in it that will distort their minds.

VALUE OF MOTOR TRUCK IS DAILY DEMONSTRATED

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

The field of the motor truck is widening each day and the extra uses to which it has been put since our entry into the war have demonstrated that it is capable of solving the most intricate delivery problems. Merchants have learned to depend upon it for delivery where speed and distance is concerned and the growing shortage of man-power will force a greater use of trucks than ever.

Trains of trucks passing over the country roads on long distance routes for freight and express are now no uncommon sight and the use of trailers in conjunction with the trucks increases the carrying capacity and still adds little overhead to the cost of transportation.

The value of the truck to the farmer is being demonstrated in every rural section and the up-to-date farmer makes use of his truck for motive power on the farm in running certain machinery, as well as for carrying his produce to market. To the truck farmer who must send his produce to the city each day, the motor truck is now indispensable and the city merchant and manufacturer find that fleets of trucks are not only cheaper to operate than horse-drawn vehicles, but far more efficient.

The use of motor trucks by the manufacturers in our big mill cities can solve New England's great freight problem, getting the goods to tidewater and railroad centres.

It is possible to save handling the load at least twice by using trucks from the factory to the retail stores in the cities even one or two hundred miles away and the cost of transportation, when the extra handling and freight charges are considered, will prove that this is the economical way of dealing with the problem.

LIVES 200 YEARS!

For more than 200 years, Hunyadi Oil, the famous national remedy of Holland, has been recognized as an infallible relief for all forms of kidney and bladder disorders. Its very age is proof that it must have unusual merit.

If you are troubled with pains or aches in the back, feel tired in the morning, headache, indigestion, insomnia, painful or too frequent passage of urine, irritation or stone in the bladder, you will almost certainly find quick relief in GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. This is the good old remedy that has stood the test for hundreds of years, prepared in just the proper quantity and convenient form to take. It is imported direct from Holland laboratories, and you can get it at any drug store. Your money promptly refunded if it does not relieve you. Insist on having the genuine GOLD MEDAL brand. In boxes three sizes. Advertisement.

PRIZES FOR BEST WAR-GARDEN LETTERS

The harvest of war gardens for 1918 is now being gathered. Some of the gardens have been tremendous successes. Others have failed.

The State Food Production Committee, of which Reginald W. Bird, of No. 45 Pearl street, is the chairman, is anxious to find out what gardens were a success and why. And also he wants to know if gardens were a failure the reason for it. Prizes amounting to $50 will be offered for the best 500-word letters giving the most interesting and instructive experience of an individual war gardener. The prizes will be divided as follows: First, $25; second, $15; third, $10.

The best of these letters will be published from time to time in the Boston AMERICAN.

The Boston AMERICAN wants to aid the war gardeners in getting best results this year. The way may be to help to record the successes and failures of this year's gardens. The letters are now well matured and the amateur gardener can figure in detail what he has made or lost in his garden.

Address your letters to the War Garden Editor, Boston AMERICAN.

This Day in Our History

THIS is the anniversary of the great naval victory won by Commodore McDonough, on Lake Champlain, over the British fleet under Commodore Downie, in 1814. All the English ships were captured and an army which attempted to take Plattsburg retreated in haste.

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

Evelyn Is Called Away and Anne Hesitates to Allow Mason to Sup With Her Alone

By ANN LISLE

CHAPTER XIX.

(Copyright, 1915, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THERE was no one in the living room when I returned. It seemed big and lonely in spite of its glowing flame-tinted torches and flickering candles. I was suddenly glad I need not eat my first meal alone—that would have made my longing for Jim too cruel!

I arranged the cold meats and bread and crackers, and the radishes and little cream-colored pat of cheese on the plates that were laid out in readiness. Then I called Evelyn.

Tom Mason strode in from the kitchenette with an air of being completely at home. His coat was off, and he was just rolling down the sleeve of his tan silk shirt.

"I've been washing—scrubbing, rather," he announced.

"Evelyn, too, I suppose. Oh, Evelyn," I called.

"Evelyn's gone," replied Mr. Mason quickly.

"Gone? You're joking!" I cried, running to the door that led to the kitchenette and bath in my haste to end this game of hide and seek.

"Mrs. Harrison, you needn't look for Evelyn. She's gone. I tell you, Sallie Royce 'phoned out to Hempstead to invite Evelyn to join them and Sheldon Blake on a motor trip up the road. And Evelyn's mother gave Sallie this number—so, of course, when Sally called Evy here, what was there to do?"

"Then I must eat my supper alone, after all!" I cried, feeling decidedly sorry for myself.

The man smiled.

"Not at all—I'm here."

"But you can't stay, Mr. Mason," I said, with a frankness that might have been called downright rudeness.

"Can't stay? Don't be foolish. Why can't I stay? You here, and you're here, and the supper is here. The obvious thing to do is to eat it."

I shrank back in amazement. Mr. Mason actually thought that I would let him remain. Perhaps it all seemed natural enough to a New York society man, but to me the very idea was revolting. First of all, I did not want to have guests at a little "house warming" before my husband had eaten a meal in his own home. Now it no longer seemed a question of feelings and desires alone, but one actually of dignity—of decency.

Of course I couldn't—I wouldn't permit this man to remain alone with me in the apartment. Even if I offended him and seemed to him narrow-minded and old fashioned, I must make that clear.

Mason Smiled

I tried. But Mr. Mason smiled at me in a fashion that made me feel like an ignorant little girl talking to a wise old man.

"My dear child, don't be absurd. How can it matter if I stay for half an hour, eat my share of the party to which you have just invited me, and that looks so delicious, or whether I go now, hungry and tired? Surely you won't deprive me of my supper. I've earned it, haven't I? Child alive, Jim won't like it if you go around snubbing all his old friends."

I had snubbed some of Jim's friends—Mr. Mason spoke as if that was common knowledge. I didn't want to offend again.

"Oh, I don't know what to do," I cried desperately.

"Of course, you don't. You poor little tired child. But I, as one of Jim's oldest friends, assure you he would want you to do the right and proper thing. You aren't going to deny me your hospitality—are you?"

In a series of flashes it came over me that I generally did the wrong thing where Jim's friends were concerned. This man, who had been so kind to me, had known Jim since boyhood.

"I'm so worn out I can't think," I stammered. "I didn't mean to be rude—I just wanted to do what was dignified and proper. You understand that, don't you, Mr. Mason? You see, I'm a small town girl and a limitless woman, and I haven't had much time for city society training. But I don't want you to think Jim's wife is a boor."

Mr. Mason studied me a moment with questioning eyes. "Poor little country mouse—of course she was a bit puzzled. But you can trust the judgment of a man so much older than yourself, can't you?"

"I think so. Oh, of course, I know so!" I exclaimed, smiling my apologies almost humbly.

Trifle Premature

My verdict was a trifle premature.

"Turn along and cool off a bit, little lady. Wait a minute—we can't have you supping in that stiff, formal satin dress. Here's the very thing!"

He hurried over to a worm-eaten, carved chest set across one corner of the room and drew out a robe of silk. It glinted in woven lights of blue and green and apricot. It fairly scintillated. He held it toward me with a little smile of complete understanding.

"I couldn't—" I gasped. I was exhausted and the day had been a nightmare of trying to forget. I wanted to cry.

Mr. Mason came toward me and flung the flashing silk garment on the couch between us as he drew me down into its cushioning embrace and sank beside me, holding my cold hands in his strong clasp. His eyes were alight, and his voice vibrated as he spoke:

"Donna Anna! Poor little tired lady. I want you to be happy in your new home. We're friends, aren't we? Don't be formal with me again and put on the robe, little girl, and we'll have a cozy evening."

The Secret of Youth

CAREER OF YVETTE GUILBERT

By Beatrice Fairfax

SOMETIMES success is accidental.

But it is the other kind of success, the kind that is the result of courage and energy, and perhaps genius, that is worth looking into.

And it is this kind of success that has been achieved by that very wonderful Frenchwoman, Yvette Guilbert.

Twenty-five years or so ago, a salesgirl in a big department store in Paris, she used to interest and amuse the other girl workers by her gift of impersonation.

An endless succession of funny and pitiful and grotesque types came to this store, as to every other. She did this extraordinarily well. Too well, in fact, for when her employers found what she was doing she lost her job.

Fortunately, this didn't occur until the girl herself had realized that she had a dramatic gift. She didn't try to get another job as saleswoman. She had courage enough to take risks, and she took them.

Sang in Cafes

So she applied to the proprietor of a cafe, who saw that the tall girl with the mighty expressive face and big, eloquent hands was an actress. But an actress of a new type. He engaged her to entertain his patrons with impersonations and songs—for she sang, too, after her own fashion.

It wasn't long before this very different and original young artist achieved a vogue. Other cafes engaged her, and she received so much praise that if she had been merely a vain young girl, with a mediocre talent, her progress would have been arrested at this point.

But though she was so young, and though she had neither general education nor special schooling as an artist, being in fact, entirely self-made, Yvette Guilbert's head wasn't turned in the least by this early acclaim.

She knew that she had a gift, but she could develop it into a much bigger one. So she went on trying.

A London manager heard of her and shortly after she was induced to cross the Channel. London music halls succumbed promptly to her art, without suspecting how true an artist she was. For Yvette was rather naughty in those days.

It required sophistication to get the points of all her witty songs and monologues. Sophisticated London went wild over her. And again, if Yvette had not been a remarkable woman, she would have gone no further.

She Comes to America.

Americans remember her at this music hall stage. The tall, thin young woman who had neither beauty nor a voice, bewitched New York as she had London and Paris. She was the piquant sensation of her season. In fact, the Yvette of that period is a tradition still.

But the interesting thing for other women with careers to realize is that this woman who was for so many years developing a unique art, was at the same time, expanding humanly.

Yvette wasn't afraid of life and experience, she wasn't afraid to marry and have children. And probably it is for this very reason that she has been able to develop her art so wonderfully.

Having a warm, quick sympathy with human beings, she was able to sing out human character and human emotion on the stage as only the really great artists can do.

It's upsetting to a great many of our notions, this sort of a career. But it is a good thing for young people to understand that dramatic schools and musical conservatories can't, after all, make artists.

Yvette Guilbert, who has taught herself all that she knows, is a supremely great artist. It may be that she has genius, but that isn't the whole story.

Though she is a grandmother, she is filled with and effuses the spirit of youth.

DOUGLAS WADE'S line of reasoning only proved the truth that a man in love sees all things from his own particular angle of vision.

Had this been otherwise he would have appreciated that Elisabeth could take no pleasure in revealing her identity to the man to whom she had for weeks now posed as "Lizzie Moore."

He would also have understood that the news of his engagement would change the whole future outlook for her.

But though she was so young, and though she had neither general education nor special schooling as an artist, being in fact, entirely self-made, Yvette Guilbert's head wasn't turned in the least by this early acclaim.

She knew that she had a gift, but she could develop it into a much bigger one. So she went on trying.

Not to Her Liking

Women are complex creatures. Men are built along more direct lines. Therefore, Douglas Wade would have been astonished could he have seen Elisabeth's expression of countenance as she finished the perusal of this letter.

"Dine with him and his wife!" she muttered. "Never!"

Then she was ashamed of her bitter feeling as she remembered Douglas's unfailing kindness and the sacrifices he had made for his little sister.

The penance she set for herself was the writing of two letters.

One was to Alicia Butler. In this she said that Douglas had just written to her of his great happiness, and she expressed the wish that Alicia would think of Douglas' sister as of a friend who hoped some day to be a sister in heart as well as in name.

"That's done!" Elisabeth sighed when she had finished the letter. "Now I will write to dear old Douglas. That task will be easier."

But it was not easier, as she realized when she re-read his epistle.

On its first perusal, the big fact of his engagement had taken such hold upon her mind that she had not understood that he was almost decided to sell the farm, unless something unforeseen prevented. Which meant that even this semi-home would be taken from his sister.

A Thrilling Story of an American Girl and German Intrigue in This Country

CHAPTER XVIII. (Continued).

"CAREFULLY," Von Schwerin replied. "And the autograph letter?"

"That I have," Fischer announced. "I will fetch Nikasti."

He crossed the room and opened the door leading into the bedchambers.

"Are you there, Kato?" he cried.

"I am coming, sir," was the instant reply.

Nikasti appeared a few moments later. He was carrying a dress coat on his arm, and he held a clothes brush in his hand. It was obvious that he had studied with nice care the details of his new part.

"You can sit down, Nikasti," Fischer invited. "This is the Baron von Schwerin. He has something to say to you."

Nikasti bowed very low. He declined the chair, however, to which Fischer pointed.

"I am your valet and the valet of Mr. Van Teyl," he murmured. "It is not fitting for me to be seated. I listen."

Von Schwerin drew his chair a little nearer.

"I plunge at once," he said, "into the middle of things. There is always the fear that we may be disturbed."

Nikasti inclined his head.

"It is best," he agreed.

"You are aware," Von Schwerin continued, "that the Imperial government of Germany has already made formal overtures, through a third party, to the Emperor of Japan with reference to an alteration in our relations?"

"There was talk of this in Tokio," Nikasti observed softly. "Japan, however, is under obligations—treaty obligations. Her honor demands that these should be kept."

"The honor of a country," Baron von Schwerin acknowledged, "is, without doubt, a sacred charge upon her rulers, but above all things in heaven or on earth, the interests of her people must be their first consideration. If a time should come when the two might seem to clash, then it is the task of the statesman to recognize this fact."

Nikasti bowed.

"It is spoken," he confessed, "like a great man."

"Your country," Von Schwerin continued, "is at war with mine because it seemed to her rulers that her interests lay with the allies rather than with Germany. I will admit that my country was at fault. We did not recognize to its full extent the value of friendship with Japan. We did not bid high enough for our favors. Asia concerned us very little. We looked upon the destruction of our interests there in the same spirit as that with which we contemplated the loss of our colonies. All that might happen would be temporary. Our influence in Asia, our colonies, will remain with us or perish, according to the result of the war in Europe. But our statesmen overlooked one thing."

"Our factories," Nikasti murmured.

"Precisely! We have had our agents all over the world for years. Some are good, a few are easily deceived. There is no country in the world where apparently so much liberty is granted to foreigners as in Japan. There is no country where the capacity for manufacture and output has been so grossly underestimated by our agents as yours."

Nikasti smiled.

"I had something to do with that," he announced. "It was Karl Neumann, was it not, on whom you relied? I supplied him with much information."

Von Schwerin's face clouded for a moment.

CHEMIST BANISHES TRAGEDY

"The most tragic moment in a woman's life is when she discovers the first gray hair, because it is Nature's warning that youth is passing," an elderly Memphis matron said recently at a Newport hotel.

"Then you are very fortunate," a Chicago lady remarked, "because apparently you never have experienced that moment of tragedy."

"Indeed I have," the Memphis lady confessed, with a laugh. "Only my tragedy was intensified, because several gray hairs appeared at the same time. I felt heartsick, but I could not bear the thought of using a dye.

"Fortunately, about that time a chemist in Memphis developed a preparation which is called Q-Ban Color Restorer. You can imagine my delight when I tried it and found it restored the uniform color and luster of my hair."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She Will Not Let Him Go

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been going about with a young man for four months and we have become very much attached. Before he met me he was engaged to a girl who broke the engagement. During the past two weeks, she has been constantly bothering him, telling him that unless he gives her a once-promised diamond ring she will sue him for breach of promise. Now, Miss Fairfax, he is bewildered and does not know what to do. She says if he gives her the ring she will call all things square. Please let me know what I shall advise him in order to relieve him of any fear. Could she sue for breach of promise when she went out with other men on his absence from Boston?

FRIEND IN TROUBLE.

If the case is as you state it to me—the young woman having broken her engagement to your friend—she has, of course, no further claim on him. And it would be foolish, not to say highly imprudent, for him to give her a ring promised when they were engaged. That would go a long way toward establishing a claim she has, apparently, forfeited.

Her Interpretation

"What does the Bible say will happen to the proud?" inquired a Dublin Sunday school teacher of her class.

A bright little girl promptly replied: "They'll be turned into animals."

Very much surprised, the teacher asked how she arrived at that conclusion.

"He that humbleth himself shall be exalted, but he that exalteth himself shall be a 'baste,'" quoted the wee lassie without a moment's hesitation.

Not the Noo

A young lady in quest of a particular piece of music went into a shop in Scotland and said to the shopman:

"Just a Little Kiss,' please."

"No' the noo," was the unexpected answer; "come back at 6, when the boss is oot."

SYMPATHY IS WASTED ON THE CHAP WHO MAKES THE SAME MISTAKE TWICE

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

BALL MEN IN PEACE PARLEY

Fenway Park, Sept. 11.—In one of totally unassuming rooms that Club-owning baseball magnates have ever had to think any effort to hold up today's game at Fenway Park, the sixth in the World's Series.

Hooper, Mann and Kilduff, representing the players, held a conference with Club Owners Frazee and Weeghman at the Copley-Plaza today, at which the magnates declared they would make an effort to see that the players received a right share of the World's Series receipts regardless of their split from the first four games. This promised a satisfactory to the players and they agreed to go on with the game today.

The series now stands three to one in favor of the home team, the Red Vaughn game through the 8th inning game and won out, 5 to 0, and today the Club southpaw is the big hero of the series.

He pitched his third game in less than a week, shut out the Red Sox 2 to 0, and put his Clubs right back to the running. If Lefty Tyler can repeat the stunt this afternoon, the title that seemed to be cinched for Boston will be as much in doubt as ever.

Those Cubs, beaten in three tough games, played brilliantly back of Big Jim. They showed a big crowd who they had marched through to glory in their own league, why this series has been the hardest fought and most beautifully played in the history of the pastime.

"The players were sore yesterday in fact, they had quit. They believed they weren't getting a square deal. They didn't want to disappoint the public, and naturally they had some interest in the future of baseball.

The commissioner, we might say, was apparently not in the last concerned about either fact. To be candid, the fans said about the commission was yesterday the better. They knew what was going to happen, just as everybody else in the world did, and they courageously faced the situation by not quitting in an unseemly spirit after the game was supposed to be on.

The players as we have said were sore. But they awakened their chagrin. A statement by Harry Hooper for all the athletes puts the players in a popular and sympathetic viewpoint, viz:

"We are not getting a square deal. We haven't had a chance to present our side of the case. For the sake of baseball, though, we will go on and play."

And play they did—more power to them! As they rightly claim, they will not get as much out of the series for winners as the members of the first division clubs who are not at all concerned, but they go with all the spirit and determination that has characterized them throughout, yet of course when they unanimously voted to hand over their total share of the receipts to the Red Cross.

Whether there is a motion or an order the series will go "flipping" down into history as the last ever played by spirited players forged their complete glove they got out on the diamond and went through to a brilliant finish.

Big Jim Vaugh had for 308 stopped from the start, held them to five hits, while Sam Jones was hammered roundly by the Chicago outfit. Brilliant play followed brilliant play with the Cubs showing up as a mighty fine baseball machine. It was a great game and made the crowd happy, even after that host's any reply. Which shows that the commission is going along in regular style, two-thirds by the village clock. There are twenty-five players in each dressing room under those stands.

They haven't their uniforms on, those players. They are striving. They have asked the National Commission for more money and they haven't got it. There are 25,000 fans in the stands at Fenway Park. There are twenty-five players in each dressing room under those stands.

Lloyd George Describes Representative Government

Don't Forget That You Vote on the Initiative and Referendum on the Fifth of November

An organization has just been formed which takes the grandiloquent and misleading title "Association for Representative Government."

The literature of this remarkable association asserts that the Initiative and Referendum is an attack upon representative government. In truth, it is a supplement of representative government which will make it really representative, safeguarded and restored to the public confidence which it has lost by being controlled now for almost three generations by the powerful corporations and organized minorities, generally, which have some especial interest to promote and have the money with which to promote it.

The argument against the Initiative and Referendum that it attacks and destroys representative government is as old as the Initiative and Referendum itself. It has been made in every State and country in the campaigns which preceded the adoption of the Initiative and Referendum. It has always been rejected as unsound by the voters of the State, and the experience of the State after the adoption of the Initiative and Referendum has always confirmed the judgment of the voters and confounded the prophets of evil.

What gentlemen who are financing this campaign against the Initiative and Referendum really mean when they say that the Initiative and Referendum is a menace to representative government is that the Initiative and Referendum will be a menace to the kind of government CALLED "representative," which we have had in America for the last two or three generations, and which has made a mockery of our pretended democracy. That kind of representative government which the corporations and the organized special interests want to preserve is the representative government which represents them and does not represent a majority of the people.

We have heard the sonorous arguments of the corporation lawyers and special pleaders that the Initiative and Referendum will substitute the judgment of a mob for the orderly, calm, intellectual deliberations of the legislative body. For some strange reason these gentlemen seem to think that the people of Massachusetts do not know how laws are passed in this State. Through some strange hiatus in the intelligence of the representatives of the State Street and Wall Street group they appear to be unable to appreciate the fact that the people of this State know perfectly well that laws are not passed in our legislative body as a result of calm, uncontrolled, deliberate debate; that they are not passed by our legislative bodies as a result of debate in the legislative body at all; that they are not even passed as a result of discussions before legislative committees. Laws today in States without the Initiative and Referendum are passed under orders from those who control the legislative committees, and who control under private arrangements enough of the legislators to secure the adoption of the recommendations of the legislative committees.

Now, everybody knows that the legislative committees are almost always controlled by the particular interest most affected by the special duties assigned to these committees. Important legislation is, has been, and will be, until the Initiative and Referendum is adopted, all drafted in the offices of corporation lawyers and put through the Legislature not by discussion, but by the arts of the lobbyists working under orders either of the corporation lawyer or of his clients and their connections.

David Lloyd George, the Prime Minister of England, has been for years a member of the British House of Commons, perhaps the greatest deliberative body in the modern world. David Lloyd George is probably the greatest living parliamentary debater. In one of his most recent speeches Mr. Lloyd George said:

Some of us here have been members of representative assemblies for a generation. Every one knows that when any great decision is to be taken what determines it is not so much what is said as the fact that there is some power behind it which takes a certain view and has the power to enforce that view.

And yet English public opinion in recent years has been much more potent in the House of Commons than it has in any of our American legislative bodies.

When we get the Initiative and Referendum we shall get rid of the corporation lobby, we shall get rid of the politicians who go to the Legislatures in order to be retained by the corporation lobby; we shall get rid of the controlled committees; and we shall re-establish the independence of the Legislature and make debate influential in its decisions, because with the Initiative and Referendum in the hands of the people, the corporations will understand that the control of the Legislature, always so expensive, is a waste of money, since a bad bill passed by a controlled Legislature can be vetoed by the people under the Referendum, and a good bill destroyed by a controlled Legislature can be passed by the people by means of the Initiative.

YOUR OWN CAR ISN'T SO BAD

The secret of happiness is being able to enjoy what you have.

If you have an $800 automobile, don't think so much about the beauty and comfort of a $2,000 car that you cannot get any pleasure out of the one you possess.

There is a whole lot of fun to be had with a cheap car.

Why not get all there is?

Forget about the more expensive one and think of what the one you have permits you to do.

You should not attempt to stifle the ambition to progress, to make a larger income which would enable you to possess greater comforts, but why make yourself miserable and unable to get pleasure out of life while you are preparing yourself for the better things which are to come?

Enjoy what you have today.

Strive for what you want in the future, but don't make yourself miserable because you are unable to immediately get it.

Unconquerable

Kind of Women Needed Abroad

MISS MABEL BOARDMAN, the only woman on the executive board of the American Red Cross, who has returned from a visit of inspection abroad, answers the question, "What sort of women workers should go to Europe?" Miss Boardman says:

"Those who are absolutely representative of the best American womanhood should be sent abroad. Our women over there in relief work represent the whole United States to our allies and to our own soldiers. They must be women of strong character, who are able to face abnormal conditions, who possess perfect health and an infinite amount of tact. This is no adventure, but the hardest of hard work. The canteen workers, for instance, must be ready at any time during the day or night to be on duty when troop trains are routed through.

"When a woman says to me, 'I want to go to France to do executive work,' I feel doubtful of her success. But when a woman says, 'I want to go to France to do any sort of work that may be expected of me—I am willing to do anything,' I feel then that she is the material out of which a possible executive may be made. The woman workers must be able to obey orders and to work under rigid discipline.

"Many persons have wondered why we have sent American women to canteen work instead of American men who are not in the army, or English and French women who are already over there. In the first place, the rolling canteens near the front are conducted by men. The canteens on the lines of communication are conducted by women because it has been felt that their presence is an encouragement to the soldiers. In the second place, French women would not be able to understand the soldiers, and neither they nor the Englishwomen would represent 'home' to our men, which is the most essential thing. Again and again canteen workers told me that soldiers entering the canteen stopped in the doorway with amazement at the sight of them, and seemed deeply touched and strengthened by finding that American women had come so far to help."

OFF THE stage.
HIS NAME is John Cope.
AND HE'S a big fellow.
AND I don't know him.
AND MAYBE he likes kids.
AND MAYBE he doesn't.
BUT ANYWAY.
I'VE JUST seen him.
IN THE play "Daddies."
AND HE'S a rough fellow.
AND HE'S a bachelor.
AND DOESN'T like women.
AND HIS sister's children.
DRIVE HIM mad.
AND HE won't go near them.
AND SOMEHOW.
IT COMES about.
THAT HE undertakes.
TO ADOPT a war orphan.
AND PAY its way.
AND HE asks for a boy.
AND IN a little while.
THE ORPHAN comes.
AND IT'S a girl.
AND FIVE years old.
AND HE doesn't want it.
AND ALL the time.
THE LITTLE orphan.
KEEPS CALLING him "Daddie."
AND READING to him.
OUT OF a book.
ABOUT A cow.
AND IT isn't happy.
UNLESS IT'S with him.
AND ALL the time.
THE LITTLE orphan.
KEEPS WANTING a drink.
AND HE has to get it.
AND ONE time.
IT GOES out in the yard.
AND HE finds it there.
ASLEEP ON an ant hill.
AND HE'S sure it's crazy.
AND AFTER a while.
YOU BEGIN to feel.
THAT HE isn't as rough.
AS HE seems to be.
AND THERE comes a day.
WHEN HE picks it up.
IN HIS two big arms.
AND PRESSES it tight.
AND YOU have a feeling.
HIS EYES are moist.
AND ALL of a sudden.
A LETTER comes.
AND THE orphan's mother.
HAS BEEN found.
AND SHE wants her child.
AND WHAT do you think.
THIS BACHELOR does.
HE JUST marries the mother.
SIGHT UNSEEN.
TO KEEP the child.
AND IT'S all just a bit.
OF A beautiful play.
THAT MADE me cry.
AND MADE me laugh.

I THANK you.

Does Gravity Affect Light?

By Edgar Lucien Larkin

Director Mt. Lowe Observatory

Q.—If you think it would be of interest to other readers of your column in the AMERICAN, I would like to know if gravity has any effect on light. LEE RUSSELL, San Francisco, Cal.

A.—This is an important question and looms since Einstein's theory of relativity went the entire rounds of scientific literature a few years since. If it does, the time of a total solar eclipse is the opportunity to make tests. Suns millions of times more distant than ours, but nearly in the same direction, must send their light to the earth passing near to its mighty gravitational mass.

Then, if the force called the attraction of gravitation has effect sufficient to bend the rays of energy of light toward it, the apparent right ascension or declination of these remote suns would be changed by the amount of bending aside of their rays of light and make their images fall on different places on the sensitive negative plates in the tele-camera. But Astronomer W. W. Campbell, at Goldendale, Wash., on June 8 of this year, owing to thin vapor, a haze in the rift in the clouds, which I saw from Woodland, Wash., was prevented from getting clear and accurate photographs.

So the question is not yet decided. If gravity thus bends light waves aside, then we do not see the suns beyond in space where they really are, for we always think an object to be in the direction in which light falls on the retina. This is a highly important law of vision.

But then it is difficult to see how attraction exerted by matter can bend a stream of waves in ether out of its straight line course. But if what we call light is really a flow of electrons, the bending process becomes more clear to our conceptions, for a magnet will bend a stream of electrons aside from their straight course between platinum terminals in modern high vacuum glass tubes and bulbs.

MEASURING MINUTE PSYCHIC FORCE

By Garrett P. Serviss

I HAVE just been reading a book which purports to furnish evidence on a basis of scientific investigation of the "reality of psychic phenomena, raps, levitation," etc. Being the first work that I have heard of which records the results of direct measurements of "psychic force" by means of physical instruments, such as weighing machines, balances, phonographs, electric bells and manometers, and the author being a "doctor of science" and an instructor in mechanical engineering in the Municipal Technical Institute and the Queen's University at Belfast, Ireland, I naturally took up the book with keen, if unsettled, expectation.

Anticipated Pleasure

We have had more than enough of the sort of thing that various "mediums" and "sitters" regard as communications from the dead. One would like to retain a respect for the dead, which would be impossible if their alleged utterances at "spiritual seances" were accepted for genuine. But the promise held forth by this book seemed to rest on a totally different foundation, and I opened it with eager curiosity. Now, at last, I said to myself, here is a real test of these mysterious phenomena by verifiable scientific methods, and the prospect gave me lively satisfaction.

But when I looked at the preface with which the author, Dr. W. J. Crawford, opens the book my anticipations dropped like the mercury in zero weather. I found there this sentence: "I do not discuss in this book the question of the identity of the invisible operators. That is left for another occasion. But in order that there may be no misapprehension I wish to state explicitly that I am personally satisfied they are the spirits of human beings who have passed into the Beyond."

Nevertheless, Dr. Crawford has succeeded in recording some exceedingly interesting facts, which may eventually lead to very important conclusions, if followed up by investigators who do not start out with the assumption that some other source of "psychic force" is concerned in the manifestations than that included in the bodies of the medium and her coadjutors in the "circle."

It seems, for instance, an important point of knowledge gained when Dr. Crawford's weighing machine, on which the medium sits during the experiments, invariably shows an increase of her weight almost exactly equal to the weight of the table suspended in the air before her. In other words, as the table rises from the floor its weight seems to be added to the weight of the medium, as it would be if she simply lifted it with her hands or feet.

Records New Facts

Dr. Crawford assures us that she did not touch the table in any way; and if we accept his statement on this point, then the increase of the medium's weight when the table is levitated becomes certainly an exceedingly curious and suggestive fact. Quite as curious is his statement that whenever the table was moved in some other way—for instance, drawn horizontally over the floor by "psychic force"—the weight of the medium was increased, though by a much smaller amount than when the table was raised bodily into the air.

The experiments with compression balances, electric bells, etc., by means of which Dr. Crawford demonstrated to his satisfaction that the mysterious force operated mainly under the table, but did not react upon the floor; that it emanated principally from the lower part of the medium's body, and could be detected both as a force directed away from her and one directed upward when it came beneath the table; that its intensity varied usually from twenty-five thousandths to four hundredths of a pound per square inch, rising in one special case to several pounds per square inch, and always attended by a change in the weight of the medium—all these things, it must be admitted, are extremely interesting, and if Dr. Crawford's results are verified and corroborated by other investigators, much more serious attention will have to be given to "psychic phenomena" than they have hitherto received in scientific circles.

'OLE CLOS' TO BE MOST USEFUL NOW

By Winifred Black

POETS have sung and prose masters have waxed enthusiastic over the subject of old clothes. Especially has the old coat been the theme of musical verse and rhapsody.

"As easy as an old shoe," is a bit of proverbial wisdom born of experience and contemplation.

To us, in this time of storm and stress, comes a new appreciation of our well worn clothes. This might be called the year of blessed old clothes, so substantial and comfortable are the veterans of former years.

Wearing a suit of the 1915 marks, Mrs. Lofty said to her tailor the other day, "I wish I could get another gown like this. It looks better now than my last Spring suit."

"It would cost you a pretty penny if you could get it," replied the man of chalk and shears. "That English goods can't be found in any market today." And he showed some of the cloth from which Mrs. Lofty must choose her new coat and skirt.

"Well, I won't have it," she declared, pushing the new stuff aside.

"I'll have my old ones made over until the last thread." And she was as good as her word.

Such a ripping and turning and sponging and remodelling of old gowns was never seen as is coming this Fall.

It is smart to economize, and that helps mightily, and the dressmaker or tailor, or the girl at home who does her own sewing, who knows how to make things over to advantage—all these are going to have a busy and profitable year.

And, after all, what a satisfaction there is in making the best of things!

Conspicuousness of Shoes

I always have felt especially uplifted in a made-over gown, even when I have known it would soon lose its freshness. But now the old stuff is best, wears best, looks best, and we begin to have an inkling that the magician's "new lumps for old" was a very clever trick. There was something in it, as Aladdin found out.

"Old books, old friends, old wine," and shall we add to the famous list, old clothes?

The old shoe has had its innings from ages past, but now its reputation has grown into something majestic. The shoe repair man should war rich under the spur of need of decent appearing footwear which is felt by men, women and children.

Try as we will, we can't make nor remake our own shoes. And, cries Miss Claribel, the giddy girl of fashion, "Isn't it a tragedy how conspicuous the shoes are now? No matter how you are dressed, the shoes must be right." And one might add the stockings, Miss Claribel. They, too, are much in evidence.

Yes, but even the silk stockings do not cost so fearfully as the smart shoes.

Well, we will learn with experience. More and more we'll think of real things, less and less of our trappings and wrappings.

"No, but it is serious," wails Claribel. "A hat can be managed—I can make one out of a bit of velvet and fur—my last year's suit can be furbished up and made to do. But shoes!"

Law of Compensation

Claribel, go away and knit on your Red Cross sock! I don't want to consider the case of shoes! I am talking about old clothes, NOT including old shoes.

As I was going to say—or did I say it?—old clothes are going to be in fashion this year. The older the clothes the better. Isn't that fine. Only, says an inner voice which I am trying to suppress, all of our old clothes have been packed in barrels and sent to the Belgians.

Well, the Belgians will appreciate them, anyway, and I can wear new clothes not half so good. So the great law of compensation will be fulfilled.
